About the Workshop

In this presentation, we will discuss the uncertain economic outlook and how it relates to the agriculture industry. There will be a focus on recession risk in Canada, inflation pressure, the tight labour market and the path for interest rates and the loonie going forward.

About our presenter

Robert has been with the Bank of Montreal since 2006. He plays a key role in analyzing regional economic, fiscal and real estate trends in Canada. Robert regularly contributes to various department publications, and is a regular commentator on economic and financial trends to the media. Before joining BMO, Robert worked in the Research department at the Bank of Canada. Robert holds an Honours Bachelor of Arts degree in Economics from the University of Western Ontario, and a Masters degree in Economics from Carleton University.

Karen is currently employed as Director of Corporate Finances at the Bank of Montreal and is an Adjunct Professor at the University of British Columbia (UBC). She has a Bachelor degree in Business Economics from the University of Saskatchewan, a MBA in Agribusiness and Economics from the University of Guelph, and a PhD in Agricultural Economics from Oklahoma State University. Karen has been a senior lender with a variety of Financial Institutions for over 16 years in the agriculture & food sectors. Karen teaches Agribusiness Management in the Master of Food & Resource Economics program at UBC as well as food policy, business concepts, and economics courses. She is a member of the BC Institute of Agrologists. She lives in Langley on a farm with her husband, horses, dogs, cats, and chickens.
