About the Workshop

Safety Culture & Why You Want It (Part 1)

If you are interested in learning how to improve your company's production while decreasing compensation and insurance costs, then safety culture is right for you. Your workers will have increased motivation and you will have an improved external perception of your organization. And the best part it won't cost you time or money to implement a safety culture into your operation!

Responsibility and Due Diligence (Part 2)

Who is the Chief Jailable Officer in your organization? We will talk about due diligence and what that means and how to ensure the responsibility for every worker doesn't lead to the CJO spending time behind bars.

About our presenter

Wendy Bennett is the Executive Director for AgSafe and has been a Health and Safety Professional for more than 25 years. She serves as a Director on two Boards whose organizations' focus is Agricultural Safety and Health both nationally and internationally. Wendy believes incorporating physical and psychological safety into daily operations is the key to reducing injuries and illness. Ensuring agriculture producers have the resources they need to ensure a safe and healthy working environment has been her goal since joining AgSafe. She hopes to continue leading change in the industry in BC toward the goal of Agriculture in BC free from injury, illness, and death.
