About the Workshop

This workshop will help participants understand the

- importance of financial reporting,
- differing roles of management, board members, and external accountants
- concept of fiduciary duty.

After reviewing the basics of financial reporting, participants will have an opportunity to analyze sample financial statements with guidance on how to ask valuable questions to improve their understanding and make better decisions.

The workshop will be useful to Board members, staff, and others looking for a better understanding of financial statements and financial reporting.

About our presenter

Dominic Tilbury is a senior manager in MNP's agriculture niche. Dominic works closely with family farm businesses and industry organizations on a variety of issues ranging from planning and budgeting, tax and accounting compliance, assurance, succession, and risk management programs.

Dominic graduated from Simon Fraser University, joined MNP in 2012, and obtained his Chartered Professional Accountant (CPA, CGA) designation in 2015. Andrew grew up on a family farm in Northwest British Columbia. He graduated from UBC with a degree in Agricultural Science in 1986. For the next 20 years he worked in the irrigation industry focusing on agricultural design and sales. In 2006 Andrew joined the province to work for Ministry of Agriculture as a Water Management Specialist. He is a Certified Irrigation Designer and a Professional Agrologist.
